Overview

Tomasz Rogala is head of the firm's Global Mobility & Immigration Team in Poland. He has over eight years of professional experience in the area of employment and immigration law.

Tomasz has managed projects concerning international worker mobility, including intracorporate transfers and postings, as well as projects concerning local hiring of foreign nationals in Poland. He has represented clients in immigration proceedings before immigration authorities, appellate bodies and courts. Tomasz has provided comprehensive advice to clients on all HR aspects of employment of foreigners and held seminars and trainings on the subject. He is the author of press publications and commentaries on matters related to the employment of foreigners. Irrespective of immigration and global mobility practice, Tomasz has vast experience in the area of employment law, including individual and collective employment matters, such as redundancies, TUPE transfers, restructuring, trade union relations, discrimination, bonus schemes and working time. He has represented clients in court litigations in employment law and social security law matters.
